First, I will talk about talmudism than other religions such as hinduism, polytheism, and buddhism. The talmudists make material up as they go along. I could picture one of these people saying, "no that's not part of the Talmud" and then I could point to the reference and ask them if they go by what is in the Talmud. What they are being taught is a. goy (us) do not know what we are doing b. they will be persecuted or being sold into slavery in Egypt. So long as they believe they are God's Chosen, what are we? If we are these evil Gentiles, how come they poll as one of the least religious countries on the earth? They won't be talked out of this; ever. How confused are these people to think a. I will harm them and b. they need the Nile to the Euphrates for their messiah. What they don't understand is that much of the Old Testament has already occurred such as Zechariah 11:12-14 where Israel and Judah would be united. The zionists must capture Jerusalem in Zechariah 12:9 where they believe all nations will attack them, this already occurred in Arabia. Tirzah and Samaria were the capitals of Israel after Jerusalem in Arabia was its capital, what gives the zionists the right to declare the capital of Israel Jerusalem? Can't this be debated on what our Lord would want? The zionists agree that our Lord wants justice as shown in Deuteronomy 16:20; however, they usurp land from the Palestinians. Wouldn't justice be working with the Palestinians and not against them? Another mistake the Khazars make is that they believe they are israeli, no one is an israeli; only the Arabs in West Arabia and Yemen are. We don't refer to people as israelis; the Arabs would be called Palestinians or Arabians. We call these people Khazars because that is where they are originally from. If they are "ethnically Jews", then we all are Jews. The Jews in Arabia claimed to be more of Moses than Muhammad, but Muhammad rebuked them so whatever claim these Talmudists have been null and void, whether either in faith or lineage it matters not. If one is true from Muhammad, both are wrong since Muslims are correct on faith which means Israel should be Palestine or ethnic Arabs are the true Semites and would be God's Chosen. The Talmudists, freemasons, and Catholics all believe in more than one God. They believe in their scripture; they know our Messiah is not the same. They believe their Messiah will conquer the earth. Muhammad isn't their Prophet; they are taught not to have other god's before God as part of the Ten Commandments in the Old Testament meaning they believe in other gods. In the Quran it says all false deities are from Satan and Muhammad was a preacher of Monotheism. This means they believe the Quran is flawed, for some reason the Quran is flawed to them but when shown the mistakes in the Old and New Testaments this doesn't stop them from attacking our nations. Jeshu in the New Testament

(not Jesus, I will address this later) was right that the Pharisees did not do the law of Moses correct since 70 elders received revelation from God when God spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai and transmitted it orally throughout time which got ruined this is spoken of in Mark 7:13, no one is at fault, this is why we don't teach things orally for 2000 years we write them down. I'm not saying they replaced the Law of Moses, it just got lost with adding and subtracting key material. If the Scribes and Pharisees did follow the Law of Moses correct, why was Muhammad sent? My point being once one practice is wrong, everything in the text is wrong to follow only because Muhammad brought us the hadiths to follow which has been replaced. It clearly got messed up. Finally, we Gentiles are responsible for the destruction of the "second" temple as according to the Zohar. This is incorrect; the Talmudists rebelled against the Romans. I believe the Sanhedrin were trying to do well, they had thought God wanted a third temple; had Muhammad been around they would have surrendered knowing their Babylonian Talmud was distorted. I have to put this in because in Syria they want you to lose faith in God, it is true that they want to win the war but both methods they believe will achieve the same goal for them. What they can't understand is they've already lost, they're divided amongst each other being the groups I had listed, and we aren't divided. The biggest flaw by far with this is why we die, all religions explain it but Talmudism, Judaism is vague on it the truth is they have no explanation at all. These people are agnostic, they will tell you it is possible a "third" temple will come but there is no proof. Do you see how opposite Islam is from Talmudism? There could be ten more Prophets who do exactly what the public wants and they'd say "still no proof", the irony here is overwhelming since we have to open Mosques in America, I'd take my chances Islam is correct that we have two groups of people that could not be more opposite, it only helps my cause that they keep debating on how to run the earth where nothing is defined for them the laws always change because of them.

For their Messiah to come, they need five prophecies which are listed under second coming on Wikipedia under Judaism. The mistake they make is in Jeremiah 46:7-10 where they believe they are promised from the Nile to the Euphrates, "the Lord will offer sacrifice" six million Jews which come from an oral teaching taught in their Talmud. This Nile to the Euphrates myth was further referenced in Genesis 15:7, 17:7-8, Numbers 33:51-56, 34:2-12, and Deuteronomy 11:23-25. I can't shoot guns at night to scare Palestinian children however the zionists can without shame or regret. The zionists have no faith at all; they cannot get a connection with our Lord by feeling no shame whatsoever. They know they are fighting a Deity. Testifying faith doesn't matter, they don't feel shame at all for their actions. Without faith, whether false or not, they would not be able to harm an innocent person and they are allowed to according to Scripture. They think we are Amalekites so they will try to make us Muslims forget the past by shoving materials in their faces while they seek vengeance on their Arab neighbors. When they see us opposing them on moral and religious grounds, they simply respond with "the Goyim are trying to deceive us." When brought up how Talmudists have been expelled from 109 locations since 250 A.D., they respond with "anti-Semitism caused it". For those who don't know, Israel gets around 15 billion dollars a year from America, think how much infrastructure could be built with this, they are not an underdog, they are a powerhouse with the IDF training every youth how to shoot a weapon. This does not include the billions poured into salafi and wahhab centers. Add to that another 1.5 trillion a year spent on America's military budget. The Talmudists are not good people by any means, they want to win, what they really want is power. I have no reason to believe they want good for us.

The problem here is the Talmudists don't recognize the Palestinians as people, they are human beings not savages, this goes beyond who controls Holy Land. The Talmudists don't need to delegitimize them claiming they have no right to Holy Land; the Talmudists have to earn the land does not condemn innocent people and make them out to be animals. The zionists want to believe something that isn't true. What indicates that the Palestinians want war? The zionists know Palestinians don't want war, so they create Hamas, and it fails. Someone is clearly making humans hate with every tactic possible. Unlike the freemasons with their war on Islam and hijacking it, this is a war on humans where they are teaching people how to think which is far worse in my eyes. They are evil by way of treachery, usurping land, and funding terrorist organizations to get their own Jewish citizens killed. Stalin was a freemason with his Talmudist wife, they both of these groups don't believe in human rights so that's why they opened the Gulags, they felt Talmudism made it morally justifiable. The Talmudists lack any rules to anything and then claim anti-Semitism when we point this out. What they also don't understand is that a life is a life, it doesn't matter what the numbers are or who is dying, they really believe these people matter more than us regardless of if they hated them. On a side note, I find it so awful they use their own people's death to display to the public Palestinians as some sort of animals based on the actions of one person. The zionists don't believe in evil, so when they mention the holocaust, us gentiles think that is evil. If they condemn this so-called event, it is just hypocritical on their part since that would be in violation of human rights. The Jews knew there are just too many flaws since Zionism (evil) came into play. A great example is that they believe the world is distorted, however they distort it by promoting material such as pornography. The reality is that they think the law only applies to them. They believe in a false god that is angry at humans and is waging war on us, if that were the case, does this false god cheer at our deaths? For that to be true, your false god didn't pick your side. For their false god to first believe that I should be taken advantage of, and then make me their slave means that either this false god hates me or truly loves these people since what would this false god get out of rewarding these people? This false god also needs to hide this from me? These people must be really lost in understanding any religion that's been on this earth or are that delusional that they think a false god would want that to hide it but only for a few. This false god doesn't want to give me a chance because I don't read the internet all day, and you won't offer it to me unless if you like me? This false god can't give me this faith because you don't like them, but I can find it on the internet and convert? Huh? Because you don't get along with me, I have to be your slave? Where do people get off with this when it is clear, they are jealous of someone they've met so now I'm their slave? The irony is on them if they ever kill someone in a DUI or your son or daughter is aggressive, but I doubt they've thought that far ahead. You're not them, you are not a "Jew", with this knowledge and with connections you could be them, but you are not where do you think their royalty comes from? I can't get over the idea that you can just join them; therefore, it is not special in my books. I don't mean Ben Netanyahu who wants to win, I mean Mohammad Bin Salman he really believes he is better than you. Ben hates you because he's smart, he sees suffering day to day and sees how Israel commits all these atrocities, he knows what he's fighting for is not a just because he knows Israel can never be invaded and that he's trying to destabilize countries killing millions until they surrender. That's why plenty of good people believe that we need this third temple; all they see are problems and wars they don't see the good in religion at all. Their lives are awful, if they lived good lives or weren't told they were special, they wouldn't do it but we always know how they got there. Don't get me wrong, plenty are evil within this; plenty refuse to go to a Mosque because they will feel bad vice versa I had gone to a Talmudist center and bought a book, do you think it went terribly? What Ben doesn't understand is that humans will get the same result whether I'm enslaved or not, Muslims or Talmudists whoever wins we will do what God wants. Why do I have to be enslaved? What does that accomplish? If us Muslims were pure I would believe in good and evil, instead I feel we are being told if we don't do this the world loses. Not to get off topic but I kind of believe in evil if someone cannot accept that they are wrong and they still do it. I know I'm right in faith because I'm not getting revenge, I don't decide who goes to Paradise and who goes to Hell. A better way to look at this, why should I be enslaved? To sum up, they just want revenge, they have no plan. I've already addressed how in Scripture it is outlined that yes tragedies happen, the Talmudists dispute Scripture like it is democracy, because that isn't the census amongst Talmudists it is wrong therefore this is impossible to prevent wars between the zionists and Hezbollah. If I'm wrong, why are both sides convinced of their Scripture? You would think I would have doubts at this point, but I don't that life is a test we will all be judged, you skip wars you go to hell, do not befriend these people, and the world will end; that is enough for me. I'm aware in the Torah non-Jews will be slaves of the Jews when their messiah comes. They work on the fact that the "third temple" has been prophesized, except for the fact that the Quran warns us of a Final Day meaning they will not have their "third temple" for long. Despite all this, they don't think it's possible that a human would write religious beliefs wrong not once throughout history or somehow I'm wrong on all world religions. It is a fact that we as humans keep wishing for more material, they aren't exempt and as I've shown, their religious beliefs reflect this. Take for example the freemasonic U.S. Presidents who were agnostics that rejected both the Old and New Testaments. They also must hide all secrets that are taught in their false religion, they are apostates who had left honest principles taught to us in Scripture. That sounds more realistic than their beliefs being correct since we are warned of the consequences for lying in Revelation; they are all most likely in Hell. These same people denounce Scripture and often have serious character flaws. The part that really throws me off is that they believe these are their Prophets and religious figures like Buddha, but they messaged they preach contradicts the way these people think and act in public. Most if not all these people are rude and angry where we have to like them first, a message that the rest of us would never accept. Which is more believable, we will die and get judged, or we will be resurrected to be a part of this "third temple". That's how they would explain death to us. What would the purpose of death be? Or why do these people have to die, for new ones to fight for this cause? This overlooks that their false god doesn't have to let them die in the first place, this false god could have made them eternal. There way of explaining death is that new people to come along on this earth, it is believable, but why does the earth have to enter this new era? If death is to make room for new people, why do they have to fight for their false god's cause since that is the purpose of humans in their minds? We aren't allowed to solve the problems of the earth if these people are right then life has no purpose. They are responsible for the killings; they just do it in the name of God. Does this make sense to people to get peace and a messiah you need to fight all these wars? They don't like what is provided to them, anyone who loves their Scripture cares not what is in it. Are you going to tell me that it is somehow wrong? What amazes me the most is that it is all written out for them with charity and worship, but they don't neglect it if in some way the practice was wrong? Someone would say "you think all Jews are a disgrace" that couldn't be further from the truth. Talmudists always try to do "good"; some do actual good, others do politics, and some do bad for the earth. There are plenty of Talmudist’s hospitals but once the history books show how they imposed Communism on Gentiles, what would you think of them? Suppose communism wasn't in their name, let's think for a moment, these people don't pray, fast, or do charity. Could it be that God thinks less of them considering Paradise has 7 layers knowing they could not be further away from God? I've met good, kind Talmudists who practice. We don't know how this will sort itself out. There is a Quran verse 32:13 that I believe says the Quran could have been for everyone God would rather have people be put in Hell, it makes you wonder if life is all predetermined.

Talmudists don't understand the earth, while I can declare war on a country that isn't Muslim with the effort to convert them, I cannot genocide a people who weren't Jewish by way of them being Japanese for instance, they don't believe in a "rule" if you get what I'm saying. There is no need (rational) for a goal or good initiative behind what they do. I'm sure on this if it is most of it is the minority, but Talmudists don't believe we humans aren't defined right so they think Muslims Christians fellow Jews we can even count hindus are "wrong". So, until the Jews messiah comes, all humans are wrong on their understanding of Allah. They believe it is wrong against our Lord to be not Jewish, but humans keep reproducing in all other faiths whether Abrahamic or not. Allah doesn't want a New Age; calamities serve a purpose if Prophets explain them to us which are referenced in hadiths. If the calamities had ended by the New Age, why have calamities? A Talmudist scholar may have an explanation for this; this is me trying to elaborate how what happens on the earth has a purpose, my understanding is they have to claim the world has no purpose if someone wants to correct me. The only thing they count as evil is idolatry, there might be more, but you get the point. The Pharisees for instance were influenced by Babylonians practicing magic and had taken from perversions, the zionists do not have any laws at all; they hide in true Judaism. They think they are immune from Hell, sadly no one is immune if it isn't enough proof their religion is false and the ones who harm us "gentiles" will be subject to Hell. This is my effort to lighten the mood since I'm right there with you where I too do not want to be judged. I need no other reasoning to prove that talmudism has defined our Lord wrong. The way I see it is Allah gave us every chance to do the right thing and to think before acting. I want to make it clear so it doesn't seem like I'm seeking revenge at "Jews", let's leave it at no and you can take my word for it or not. Most of the public is unaware of what is going on in the earth yes, but does that mean they are worthless? I have to give the Talmudists credit for finding Mel Gibson the worst of the worst. When I try to say Talmudists are responsible for some of the world's problems because they try to pester people, now that's people of all faiths, if anything they will believe more and more in what they teach. I'm trying not to blame Jews on this, the world has problems, and the solutions never get implemented, that doesn't mean we have to fight in wars to try to unite the earth, right? Yes, there are problems of the earth, but we all get tested, it is more believable that our job is to live life and avoid problems on the earth rather than keep bringing them up daily on the news. They will just get closer and closer to getting us all to hate each other. The ones who run America and the west do not think good of you at all; they really think we are the lowest of low as if we need them to run the banks, office, media, and Hollywood for us. I the goyim will be blamed for all of this. I'm the least anti-Semitic person to walk the face of the earth, let them run everything in the west. Stop giving us Donald Trump's to make us look senseless. It must be awful to be a Talmudist to believe you are always right despite the fact other Talmudists disagree with them and countries are bound to crash someday. You know this will all break down, people hate Talmudists. Do you see how a few ruin it for all? Every community will get more and more people like these. If they don't run America, please explain to me why none of the celebrities or politicians support Palestine?

They really don't get that I cannot trip someone and expect for the other person not to hit me because they are not Islamic. This whole anti-Semitism thing is pointless; they say it for every word that comes out of their dumb mouths they think they are without question even when they are wrong, I could talk one of these people into robbing a bank making the think he could get away with it because he thinks he is Allah himself. If they really were Allah, they could get away with it. It gets worse than you think; they think they are always right, if they are how come they keep dividing themselves? Look at the elections. Jesus himself said that Satan divides himself in Matthew 12:26. Somebody has to be right. They must really fight with one another, not that kind of fight but respect. I know Noam Chomsky is condescending and gets mad when people don't listen to him. He thinks "libertarian socialism" is a god and he has discovered, if only he had the key to the whole world since he thinks he can do no wrong. Suppose he admits he can do wrong; how does he know to correct it? That would mean he is God which he is not, nor is "libertarian socialism", I am embarrassed for him. First, they think we are idiots; then they think they are fighting for good. But we have already tried their policies and they have failed. I would love to implement their policies in a country where people wanted them. That way I can get the ten percent of those who hate their country out. I will give these people who hate me their own paradise. They will blame each other over small details when it fails. Assad would laugh if I told him this. Country leaders must have some funny conversations, we are all laughing at you, you cannot pin me against him, and you cannot arm people to kill him. Keep blaming each other, you call us evil, but you blame us for your division; that is illogical. How are we to blame for your failures? Part of you is not waiting on a false Messiah; you want to control the earth. You claim atheism, yet you are not, people will pick up on it. You violate our own rules of war as parts of the Ten Commandments "you shall not kill" the Talmudists of today kill innocent Palestinians. 600,000 have died as a result of them. "You shall not steal" the Talmudists of today steal land from the Palestinians. The problem is both sides want peace so the Talmudists invent Hamas as a threat that needs to be taken out, how will the Talmudists take all of Jerusalem Palestine? The problem with their efforts lies with the fact that it has democratic views on our Lord's laws. It has racist views along with peace views along with war views, nothing is set in stone therefore it can never work. They are divided by accident with people adding to their Talmud. If that isn't bad enough, they are modern day Edomites not Israel since they would have sided with Herod the Edomite who was cursed as Malachi 1:4 teaches us while Israel would not agree with the laws of man. Make no mistake; these people will do anything to achieve their goals. After testing the atomic bomb in Hiroshima/Nagasaki, they later dropped one in Cambodia during the Vietnam War. If that's not enough, Anwar Sadat had to come to a ceasefire with the zionists during the October War after being told that they would drop their arsenal of nuclear weapons on Egypt.

What they don't get is that no one cares what they have to say, if they duped someone by writing their own laws then it would be good for them. The people who side with the freemasons and Talmudists have no principles at all, they don't matter, they lie for narratives, or they are unable to research material, they don't count if they hate Islam because it was taught to the youth at a young age, did they not go to school, watch movies, meet friends? You still cannot make a case for the 600k who lost their lives in Palestine and had to be evicted from their homes in places such as Haifa, would you like if I evicted you from your home? They will keep doing that and you apparently support that. You still have not captured Lebanon, people in the West ignore you when you talk about Hezbollah, who cares if they listen to me or not, they will not agree with you, they will not send troops into Lebanon; that comes from their paycheck. You have to get those idiots on your side, and they don't agree with you. Do you see how much you have to do in hiding? People in Lebanon do not want a UN Mandated country, the UN will be found responsible and will expose who they work for. It's almost laughable too, I know Ben Netanyahu wants peace, but if you don't support the zionists, he will try to lure you into joining Hamas, it's either you are for or against him. If you go against him, he will try to get you executed. I know he "likes" Palestinians; he supports them he just does not allow a state and he tries to win their votes. We do not do that; you can be against us as long as you do not interfere with our affairs. You can get a guy a lot worse than him believe me; he at least cares about the Palestinians who support him, he has invented his own definition for peace where he does not allow nationalism. They declared war on the Palestinians, by definition they do not want peace, they won't get up and leave either; we won't give them the moral edge that they want until they tell the public they want from the Nile to the Euphrates. They will come with many lies claiming to be God's Chosen and oppressed, they play right into our hands, they have to deny the New Testament and the Quran as it speaks out against them. Mark Zuckerberg says "as a Jew, my parents taught me we must stand up against attacks on all communities" yet they attack religious communities who are not pro-Israel. Not all of them are good, if they had 0% crime and they all loved each other I would have sympathy towards them, but they don't they still have thieves and sex offenders, they aren't all good people. I hate to burst someone's bubble since I know not all these people love each other but that is what happens when a religion has principles in it such as seeking vengeance. We know how all these low lives of all backgrounds do the work for them, if the 2,800 slaves weren’t written in then everyone would stay in their faiths they wouldn't switch to the Talmudism, we humans don't know if the "third" temple is better than Paradise. You have no proof at all that it will work, talk about faith where Hezbollah keeps winning all of these wars. It is a miracle Israel even exists I know plenty of Talmudists are great people but the rest hate humanity, so all of these non-Talmudists are evil? Why would a God even give life to us non-Talmudists? A better question I pose, why is it so many Talmudists believe God isn't owed anything? There are plenty who will not donate to charity at all, not out of greed but out of some sort of hatred of God not humans. Think of anti-Semitism, one of them starts a fight, gets beaten up and feels right to go home beaten up; it is like they don't want the world to work at all. It must be awful to only point to the bad and never the good in life. It is a shame all Jews do not have turn the other cheek found in the New Testament, perhaps a good solution a minority does could spread and prevent this.

They have no limits, and it still doesn't work in their favor. I can show someone how senseless these people really are, they blame Islam for the wars but then I say, "oh well why don't we let Assad stay in power" they respond with "no", I didn't even pick a side at that point, they did knowing that without Assad that will destabilize Syria. They can't win any debates; they are the aggressors; they make it so obvious they want the leaders they don't support gone. Another thing too is that their whole zionist state supports them, just because they don't tell the public from the Nile to the Euphrates doesn't mean they can argue against those borders, all the countries they target are from within them. How funny would it be if I showed someone all the names that run banks, media, and politicians? They cannot deny it; I now see how dangerous this stuff is for them. Notice also that they got from the Nile to the Euphrates from the Old Testament; it isn't a matter of strategic borders, and these same people are claiming Islam is dangerous, these people are genocidal. They even have religion persecution in their own country, what do you think would happen if someone converted to Christianity? They would lose their job. Part of me thinks that the people in America who work for them just want to do the right thing; they just forget that destabilizing a country is not acceptable; Syria cannot get away with that in America also think of the 250k civilians killed as a result of the war. Evil actions never justify good intent; when we are at war with the enemy, we wanted to end it; they didn't bomb civilian homes on purpose. Also, they abuse military soldiers, something is not right with the US government. You can't tell me that humiliating someone is good for a soldier; you will make them vengeful and angry at other Americans the rest of their lives. They say there is around 3% living in America, I would argue there is an upwards of 10% not including those who take from them, that could lead to 20%. It is at least 10% I figure because they don't count the 20% of potential Khazarian bloodline living here. We all know this is not an accident where Talmudists are taught that we are senseless goyim thus getting hatred from Europe, had they have never been forced out of Khazaria by the Mongols and the Russians along with the French and American revolutions, Israel would not exist. The world would not tolerate illegal taking of land. The same reason caused colonialism to fail in Asia, had it have passed we would all be Muslim if not Christian.

I would never become one of their personal 2,800 slaves. What a hack job effort of this belief where Allah serves man. Allah decides our fate, not them. A human not a Prophet had written that in, once that is put in, any chance of a just or noble effort is taken out it all becomes about revenge on the gentiles. I have nothing wrong with 2,800 slaves for fighting for a cause; it just becomes fact that the cause is no longer about good. Because I was not made aware of this then your slave for life, if Hell is eternal which is more believable that because I wasn't a Muslim, I go to Hell forever because I rejected the truth? The freemasons believe that man created god and they believe the same "third" temple kind of ironic since this indicates to me of a low view of God though we weren't there for it when the person wrote down the "third" temple. They (Israel the country) believe they are blessed, and Syria is cursed in Genesis 12:3 and Deuteronomy 30:7 technically we don't know which country Allah blesses if it is Syria/Iran or America/Saudi Arabia/Israel as I've stated thousands of times, we've all picked a side about who is Israel the same verses can be used for both or even a third party like freemasonic Russia. Simeon Bar Yochai, a Talmudic author once said, "best of gentiles, kill it, best of snakes, cut its head, the most pious of women is prone to sorcery". Why this has never been on Fox News, they must not have discovered it yet nor has Richard Dawkins knowing aggression against others have been done in the name of Talmudism. I am more than aware that he is not the centerpiece, but a key figure. Whether those who support the zionists or not, this element will always be in it because they believe in democracy until their false messiah comes. I even show you who is being funded and who to target. I don't expect someone to be neutral. Their religion is a database of dated rabbi's thoughts and opinions on life, events, and emotions. What makes it incorrect is that the Talmudists believe that people will live during this third temple, the problem is in Quran 3:185 we are told that every soul shall taste death making their belief wrong. The Catholics worship a false Babylonian god known as the "Planet Saturn" as shown in Acts 7:43, a star of remphan in is the Talmudists flag the verse addresses both. If you explain this to the zionists, they will get angry; this is why I believe there is a Devil out there.

Anti-Semitic means against the people of Shem, Arabs are the closest to his bloodlines therefore are incapable of such actions. Acts 7:52 shows us that the Talmudists have betrayed all of the Prophets. If I were to look up "anti-Semitism" by one of them, they would tell me what they consider to be disapproval of them; that would be them telling me the truth. I would have to be in their cult to argue with them or else they wouldn’t listen. They need one of them to learn not to overinflate a tire; that would have to happen to them first all public knowledge is disregarded by them until they discover it on their own. That's why they refer to us as "goyim". Freemasons are taught to lie in court to defend a "brother", God says don't lie especially in court, see the big difference? I know that they accept the Bible as divinely inspired, they have to or else their IQs are lower than mine. Why do they spend all day reading books for the sole purpose of trying to be smarter than everyone else for a narrative? Don't they have anything better to do? My guess is that they share information and agree on most of it, why? Did any schoolteacher read "the diary of Anne Frank" after years of teaching it to classmates and say "what is up with this book and why are we teaching it? Do we even know if it is historically accurate or not?" See what they do, they lie about historical events and then laugh at others, like they too would not have been fooled at first, let someone lie to them and see if they catch it or not. We can't have these people in society, not because I don't tolerate the mess they promote, but because they believe murder is justifiable since we are in their way from achieving "peace". So, if we just let them kill all of the Arabs, they will get peace? This is insanity. The Talmudists believe in Genesis 27:29 and in Deuteronomy 15:6 that nations will bow down to them and become their slaves, the problem is this prophecy has already occurred with Ancient Israel and with Prophet Moses entering Mecca the Holy Land where the Israelites reigned over many nations. Ben Netanyahu zionist Prime Minister will go as far as lying about Prophet Sulaiman’s reign in Jerusalem in Arabia claiming it was in Palestine, the land is worthless for Muslims but is worth something to Talmudists since they accept the "second temple" in fact no Prophet set foot outside of Arabia. They want you to believe it is "the land of the Jews", fine who cares really when Israel can be anywhere? However, the whole goal is Zionism, the land means nothing to them. I could care less if Mecca was their holy site, they won the land from the Palestinians. I thought New York was their holy site; the first thing that comes to mind is New York. If New Jerusalem was holy for instance, why is it that Ben Netanyahu says it is the land of the Jews? It would be a holy site not the land. If a country took Tel Aviv from them, the Talmudists would say that land is their land. I promise you that the whole goal is Zionism, there will always be a white Prime Minister and President without a beard and religious robes like the Pharisees to appeal to America and the west; this is to get their support along with being "the only democracy in the Middle East". Their only goal is to get from the Nile to the Euphrates; they believe the land is holy, "From the Nile to the Euphrates" Ben Gurion, "From the Brook of Egypt to the Euphrates" Theodore Herzl that is why the zionist flag has two blue lines, those are the rivers.

Why is it that Scripture contradicts this "third" temple, except for talmudism? This is the flaw of man where anything written becomes believable because others believe on it. How is this any different from a false Greek god telling someone that its followers will be promised the earth to rule over? How do they know I'm wrong on faith? How do I know? I don't, that is faith. The problem with theirs is it is all special to them, unless if they have generations of it then I don't feel they should be a part of it a lot of it just random people who want to kill innocents in the name of a religion they don't study at all is really what is comes down to. If this land is promised to them, why is it that Arabs are most closely related to Abraham? Either Islam or Talmudism is wrong, it can't be both. Nothing is hidden in the Quran or the hadith's they would explicitly state "don't let any non-Muslims read or know about it" there's no past down generations of Muslims saying "Christians are forbidden to be around these books" when Muhammad went out and debated them. However, in the Talmud, it says something along the lines of "don't let the Goyim read this, that is the worst possible crime, do not do it." If I have to pick one as my enemy, who would I chose unless if I hated Islam? After all, Muhammad fought Jews that we don't know read the Talmud or mistook the Torah; he never fought a single Christian he even waited for the Jews to strike first in many instances; the Jews had betrayed him and tried to kill him. Muhammad as a Prophet or not, If you still don't trust Muslims because it has war approval in the Quran, well doesn't every country approve of war? Your country wants to keep you safe; this is no different. In Matthew 13, it says enemies do things in hiding, us Muslims have to declare war on others. There were so many Talmudic books no one could find out what was going on but these people were still banned from almost everywhere at every time. The Russians wanted to make it work with the Talmudist, they had no idea what was going on. The Russian leaders read the Torah and they knew there was a portion of good Jews who helped Russia out that we now know as Orthodox Jews, there were so many Jewish books it was impossible for them to realize what was happening. All they knew was that it was the same people getting involved in conflicts that was one group of many different races and religions in Russia that all got along. Lenin would go on to pass a law that made it illegal for you to "slander" a Talmudist all because Talmudism didn't disagree with communism as if it isn't obvious history hides the truth.

They don't pick up blasphemy (that's bad, it enables them to mock God) like we do in Christianity and Islam. They mock a god they are taught to serve, seems incorrect to me. Many of them are Hitchens, Chomsky, Krauss, Stewart, Maher, and worst of all Sam Harris to name a few will talk people into atheism. They will "criticize" Christianity and Islam, no one asked why. Sam Harris even praises jainism, buddhism, and hinduism add to that he is critical of Prophet Muhammad and Islam's rejection of Pacifism. Whatever talking point he can find, he will come with. I also want to point out that we Muslims are also Monotheists, does something seem wrong to you where in Islam there are five daily prayers, and these people are some of the least religious? My point here being that Islam is Monotheism, there is no other way to define it. Many think I'm lying about this "Jewish agenda" which they know turning people atheist will end the earth. It's not a battle to be fought or a crime against humanity to have religion being taught in schools. Bear with me on this because their intentions are not accidental though they are never asked in person. They will not teach how freemasonry is the same ideology as Talmudism where the followers choose if they want to be religious or not. Also, there is between 15% to 37% of agnostics or atheists living in Israel; that is where many of the atheists are found on the internet. Someone watching this at home may not understand this, they have a fixed notion that religion where it prevents all forms of free speech in Muslim countries and allegedly being prevented in what was once Christian Europe. I'm not at all lying when I say it is too convenient to me. Their plot is to get you to disbelieve while they themselves belief thus allowing faith for their messiah to come. To top this all off, if you go to Israel all of their citizens are prepared to justify each of their five wars and every event involving them, doesn't that seem strange? They have to explain how you are somehow wrong with what you've studied about them, and they are there to correct you just in case, people, this isn't normal. If you're wondering why many debates, funding programs, and religion being taught in public schools is being summed up in a short paragraph by me, it is because there isn't much else to be said I would allow them to have the last word. As far as the creators of South Park goes, you people are the worst of mankind mocking your own people with a greedy Jewish lawyer. We know we can fix these problems, but all God is asking for is just to accept it and get upset instead of laugh at reality, if you cannot do that then yes Hell is necessary for you, you wonder why Maalik is angry when all that is asked is don't mock God care about someone besides yourself or a cause. Every possible argument has already been made; I've made my case. To end this on a positive note, I believe that Israel deserves the 1967 borders but because they want from the Nile to the Euphrates, we Muslims have to defend the land.

Christianity is the most believable religion on this earth for the Industrial Revolution and Colonialism. It is also believable that Prophet Jesus died for our sins, but this is not true. It turns out that the gospel we have today is a forgery of the true Gospel with a man called Jeshu who existed in Palestine and wanted to be King of Israel, we know this because Prophet Muhammad revealed to us that the true Gospel is lost. While I cannot conclude what Kamal Salibi writes is correct, it is by far the most believable theory along with no Prophet stepping foot outside of Arabia. If read the Old Testament, you will believe that all Prophets except Jesus sinned, this is true but why would Prophet Sulaiman have over 700 wives and 300 concubines? When they become Prophets, they do not sin according to Islam. That is more believable to me than a Prophet having 1,000 ladies to go against our Lord, why if all of these Muslims or people of any Abrahamic faith do not do such a thing against our Lord? That to me sounds beyond any form of rebellion. It is possible there is one final holy book without flaw. The biggest flaw of all is the Jordan country, the jordan in the Bible is the Sarawat Mountains in Saudi Arabia and Yemen. We don't know what the borders of this alleged Jordan countries should be or what the Jordan really is, it isn't defined only by Kamal Salibi is it. Children are not born from "original sin", what I mean by this is children cannot sin in Psalm 51:5 David is saying he was sinful at birth, it is just a way of saying he was once sinful surely it was at birth, only until children reach puberty are they sinful without going into detail, they don't do drugs, nor do they have anything to sin with. My biggest gripe with Christianity is that Jeshu census says always preached peace making him the perfect example for mankind, this does not work we can't surrender Syria so if Muhammad is "evil" for telling us we must defend the land then fine. There is also the belief of once saved always saved, therefore I can leave Christianity. In Mark 12:35-37 Jeshu says he is not the son of David and that he is Lord, Jesus is the son of David, Jeshu here is claiming to be the son of God being God's son therefore he couldn't be David's son, in the Quran we know Jesus is David's son through Maryam. Paul then messes this up in Acts 2:30 and Revelation 22:16 says Jesus is from David. Why would a problem like this be in the New Testament? If Paul is a false apostle, that ruins it for me, why does Revelation contradict it? There is also freemasonry in John 1:5-7 of the darkness not understanding the light. The gospel we have today also contains many contradictions and many misuses of the Old Testament we have today. Luke confused Mount Olives with Olivet from Samuel 15:30. Matthew misquotes Jeremiah for Zachariah 11:12-13. He also says that north and south Galileans have different looks and a different dialect. Both the Old and New Testaments contain many contradictions. Peacemakers are also "sons of god", so many of us are "sons of God" outside of Jeshu? The biblical Jesus is modeled after the sun god Ra, the Jesus in the Quran is not. In 2 Peter 3:14-16 there are some difficult things in his letters which ignorant and unstable people explain falsely. It can't be the "son of God" because 1 John 5:10 is a son of God reference. In Christianity there are no prayer times. What was the date of Jeshu's crucifixion, where was he buried, how many people visited his tomb? In Galatians 4:4 Paul knew of the tradition of Jesus as the Messiah but was not going to name Jeshu he wasn't going to tell us his Jeshu's father or mother. Jews correctly documented that Jeshu's mother was promiscuous having a child with either a Roman soldier or a carpenter they tell us the truth they just do not know for certain who the father was. Had Talmudists have not been liars throughout history; I sure would believe them over Paul it just so happens they don't lie here so we are led to believe Jews hate Jesus when they were right to execute Jeshu for claiming to be the Messiah, he performed no miracles and lied, he was from the Davidic line but was certainly not the Messiah. If Jeshu were the Messiah, why did Muhammad have to deliver us the Quran? It would have worked and Jeshu would have been King of Israel, Jeshu thought he was the Messiah. The real Jesus was not the King of the Jews nor ever claimed to be, he had a very small following in Arabia, the Jews were right to mock Jeshu. The King of Israel was not crucified there is no King of Israel as we are led to believe that Jeshu was this innocent peaceful preacher. The truth is the Old Testament is not correct nor is the false gospel, the world will end Judaism and Islam could not be more opposite religions. Jews or Talmudists have to believe the Messiah will rule the earth because if not, the world will be Muslim or at least wars will end. One of the myths is that Jeshu preached a non-aggressive message, his method was peaceful, but the message was not. Why did Allah need a sacrifice for our sins? It is more believable to me that Jesus left the earth peacefully. Christianity believes it or not is the least believable religion of all because there is no final Prophet, nor can we confirm a Final Day if the Bible if there are over 100 Bibles. What Prophet gave powers to his companions? I'm allowed to believe that Jesus wouldn't when all Prophets should have been able to though I cannot conclude. If you believe in a world to come, why do you tell the public you support Israel for Revelation 21:1-27? They believe this is a reference to a New Jerusalem in Israel being built, this is false, the vision was a lie or is a reference to Medina, not that it matters since Revelation 21:22 says no Temple was inside of Jerusalem when the author allegedly saw it. Finally, there is the kingdom of god which is a way of becoming a Christian not an actual kingdom or I'm wrong who knows? Why isn't the false gospel clear on this like with many other concepts? "Our Lord Jesus" is not the same as Jeshu, Paul saw a Jinn who told him he's "the lord jesus"; "the lord jesus" is a false Arabian god who legends claim could bring people back to life. The false apostles thought that if we worshipped Jeshu and he conquered the earth, this would end death for good; this is found in Corinthians 15. "Whoever believes in me will never die", "I am the vine......you can do nothing without me", Jeshu was preaching that he was god to get people to worship him knowing he's not "the lord jesus". The writer of Acts even lies to us that Paul healed someone who was crippled, Paul or Jeshu's apostles had no powers. Paul is brainwashing people behind it to walk by faith and not by sight so therefore smart people are made dumb since faith to them means faith in their messiah coming which means they can kill you this verse is 2 Corinthians 5:7. Christianity is a political cause; Christians aren't however those who want the "third" temple cite this. There are also freemasonic references in the new testament such as the kingdom of god" being in your heart in Luke 17:21, the darkness does not understand the light and gets angry at it John 1:5-7, having eternal life in John 12:23-27, Jeshu being the way the truth and the life in John 14:6, Jeshu doing greater things in John 14:6, and in Corinthians 15:31 where Paul says he dies daily. We know Paul knew something because in Second Epistle Thessalonians 2: 2:3-4 the antichrist will call himself god and demand worship in the "third" temple, Paul correctly predicted this. Jeshu and Prophet Isa don't have the same birth stories in the Quran; there was no one present during Isa's birth. In Luke 2:1-4 Jeshu could not have been born a virgin, the Romans would have taken a census of it, the whole world would know. If I'm correct, why don't they teach Jeshu in the schools in Muslim countries? What will happen is the Saud's will shut down Mecca and will declare war on the west to try to launch Armageddon this is to show how everything goes together since Jeshu is a "theory" yet I "believe" all of these countries know the truth. Now you know why other religions exist because it is a giant conspiracy according to me since they've all been overthrown and replaced by Talmudists, freemasons, etc. yet they've retained their deceptively false beliefs believing that we are "cattle". This would happen anyways if people read the news, someone is lying to you, is Bashar Al Assad lying or is Vladimir Putin lying, can't both be right back this isn't 1800 where it is a tossup which religion is correct I seriously wonder why there are still Christians in the Middle East I could be wrong about all of this but I am not wrong about the fact that one is clearly lying to you or is really arrogant. There are articles on the internet including documentaries where the Queen of Sheba was in Yemen, I know the world cannot teach this. They moved the Merneptah Stele and the Dead Sea Scrolls into Palestine; they knew Mount Sinai is in Arabia because of Paul's writings, so they drew a "golden Calf", this false land is called Jabal Al-Lawz, this Gulf of Aqaba instead of the Gulf of Suez which borders Egypt. We know Egyptians neither owned slaves nor have Pharaohs; all seems to indicate that these are Arabian stories such as Abraham building the Kaaba; Abraham could not have traveled far. We also know that Muhammad's wife's cousin Waraka ibn Nawfal was an Arab priest; he would have the correct Gospel where Jesus spoke of the oneness of Allah, the true Gospel would not speak of a "son of god" such an error would never be in there. If Jesus is that important, what role did the Prophets before him play? It is more believable there is one more Prophet to venerate them instead of in Christianity where it is all about Christ. If Islam is false, how come Islam answers every possible question about the Day of Resurrection? Finally, if the only Holy Land was Arabia, everyone would believe in Islam.

I have no reason to believe that hinduism would have spread outside of India regardless of the circumstances. They do not define what a Prophet is, which means anyone can contribute to it. They don't have a Final Day; they think the earth won't end and that people will become whatever is left of the nukes, nothing will remain from the nukes. My second problem with hinduism is that they can keep adding or removing concepts to it, so my answer is no. They can keep going forwards or backwards, our Abrahamic religions are defined. I know which I would prefer, I expect concepts such as Thall Shall Not Steal to be defined, Allah knows best. This is bad for India, someone could say to themselves "well, I have done enough good, I can go steal from someone I never met" now I'm not saying that more than some people do this in India, my point is that if they began dumping their ethics, it would happen more often than it does. This "karma" you speak of is just not necessary, my point is that we don't need Karma; we know not to steal from our neighbors. Another problem with hinduism is that they view the cow as "sacred", while I may be able to talk others out of it, I can never talk the whole country out of it. There would always be a minority who thought that they could end up persecuting each other. In the Holy Books, we are told that animals are owned by God and cannot be violated. I do not control the animal; the animal will obey my command and will not betray me because I feed it. Animals cannot be taught to look both ways before crossing a street; they cannot roam the street they will get hit by a car there is nothing "sacred" about them though they are God's animals. We also sacrifice an animal on one day every year; this is to give it to feed the poor. My final problem with hinduism is that charity is not about what you get out of it; charity is about the other person. Most people do not want to give up their own money. The best way I can describe this is that Allah says work is more important than if you want to donate more go ahead, in hinduism they don't tell you which is the better option of the two when I can do both. One final point I want to make is all religions seem to allow abortion now except Islam, how bad is that considering people such as myself approve of it if not for religion since the economy is awful. Charity is big too because in Islam we allow people to study the religion all day, they are also giving charity back to us for us to get more answers in Islam, this is good because it is a choice instead of entering politics. With all faiths other than Islam, there are philosophers or law makers for countries; we have Messengers which allows us to interpret Scripture.

Dharma is required for hindus. This means hindus are not allowed to work their way up to become wealthy. The majority of hindus are in the two lower dharma classes, this means they cannot study their Vedic texts or enter hindu temples. In the Bhagavad Gita, the brahmin class does not have to engage in warfare. Brahmin is the highest class in hinduism. Classes below brahmin have to engage in warfare. The second highest of the four classes is kshatriyas consisting of warriors. There is a concept in hinduism called Chakravarti that is a universal ruler. Hindus believe the earth sists atop four elephants standing on the back of a turtle. The Maurta dynasty and the Gupta dynasty tried to conquer a big triangle-shaped island that didn’t exist. Hindu’s believe Krishna had 16,000 wives in hinduism, I don’t believe that is accurate. Hindus during ancient times engaged in animal sacrifice frequently. Hindus had engaged in human sacrifice, there are terms for this in hinduism, they are called purushamedha and sati. Hindu chief queens had to have sexual intercourse with a deceased horse that was sacrificed called ashvamedha. Hindu women would dedicate themselves to a false god called devadasi. Hindus worship male genitalia; the term is called shivling worship. Hindus believe all humans have a divine nature. I realize mainly this is saying to get in touch with their “soul”, but it claims that us humans are divine in some way which we know us humans not to be. Also, hindus believe the world is eternal, this is false. Hindus believe in Hell, it is called naraka. Hindus learned Hell from the faith of Abraham. In hinduism, when Shiva got upset with his son Ganesha, he swapped his head for an elephant head.

Mormons believe they will be judged by Joseph Smith to get into their heaven. Once they get in, they are married and become “gods” to make new families for all eternity. Mormons believe their false jesus had 3 wives that Joseph Smith is the descendant of. There is no evidence of this to this day. Mormons believe that Lucifer is a “son of god” and that Jesus is a “son of god”. Mormons don’t believe Elohim who they claim is their father god was the first god and was born from a false god from a planet and the false gods reside on planets. Does anyone seriously believe this?

Joseph Smith wrote the book of mormon in 1827, the book of mormon had grammar issues where Joseph Smith says, “in them days” and “also much horses”. He also used words that don’t exist where he says that a “tremendious” a battle was fought. Joseph Smith would later revise his book of mormon ten years later in 1837.

Buddhism is not a form of hinduism. Jainism is not a form of hinduism. Buddhism and jainism started ahimsa, the hindus added it to their religion later on. Some jains do not eat potatoes because some jains believe that uprooting a potato would be severe for the potatoes.

I have no clue what the origins of Zoroastrianism are. What I believe is that their founder took elements from the Middle East and created a religion out of it being in Iran, Zoroaster lived near Babylon and had learned the Israelite stories from others forming his own religion. Zoroastrians claimed Abrahamic beliefs were the same as theirs to try to compete with other religions at the time. Zoroastrians had a practice of incest that was common and was regarded as one of the highest acts in their beliefs. This practice was gone after the Muslims conquered Persia.

There is no connection between Zoroastrianism and Islam. Zoroastrianism came after the Islamic Prophet Moses who revealed the Torah.

Christmas comes from the Roman pagan festival on December 17th to December 23rd called Saturnalia. There is no writing that mentions using crosses in Christianity.

Jehovah's Witnesses believe that the Angel Michael and Jesus are the same person.

We know idolatry is wrong because if someone prays to an idol it does nothing. It may have done things historically, but we are talking over 1400 years ago. The hymns are lost if people were able to contact their jinn through them. Idols may have been jinn, now there's no more, that's what I believe. Catholics pray to saints, those are intermediaries. You don't need them for your prayers to reach Allah. The term heathenry that pagans use in Europe comes from heathen. This is more evidence that the Abrahamic's got the religion correct.

The Greek polytheistic false god Zeus turned into a swan to have sex with Leda. In Nordic polytheistic mythology, Loki turns into a woman to give birth to an 8-legged horse. Loki also had disgusting acts with animals. The Greeks when they had the Olympics were naked as a way to appeal to their false gods.

In ancient Greece, wearing skirts was considered manly. The Mayan people believed turkeys were false gods and worshipped them. Most Ancient Egyptians drank beer daily as a form of nutrition.

The Ancient Egyptians had no sacred text. Horus's brother cut Horus up into 14 pieces to his death. Horus's sister Isis put 13 of the pieces back together, that is how Horus was resurrected. Horus later rules the underworld. That is not similar to the Christian narrative.

To summarize buddhism, buddhists believe humans will keep being born again until "betterment". I don't believe there is any thought put into it at all. Even the name I don't agree with. There's no good and evil defined, their effort at self-betterment doesn't matter, they are not relevant. What they do and don't do doesn't affect others, that is why Hell exists as punishment. They can also commit shirk; it doesn't have a basis. buddhism was based on the belief that the more you give, the more you get in your next life; this seems like an explanation for what was really a question of "how do I become richer?" If your religion explicitly allows interfaith marriage, then I will not believe on it, hinduism and Sikhism doesn't allow for it but buddhism does. Finally, buddhism doesn't stand for anything, if I see a cross; I know it means to support Palestine. We are obligated to know and support them. What I believe is that humans were not smart enough to understand the message until Muhammad arrived in 610 hence it was distorted with buddhism and hinduism. As far as Sikh goes, women are not equal to men their brains are inferior to men making their beliefs false. It has to be brought up because with all non-Abrahamic faiths, they are not being raised right in a world where I believe we all need faith of some kind. In Abrahamic faiths, we are taught to bathe which other faiths don't teach. The only case that can be made is polytheism because Islam speaks of Adam and Eve which is the beginning of time, anyone claiming Monotheism would have to claim before Adam while disputing either the Quran or Prophets, while these false religions explain Monotheism, Muhammad gets to claim Monotheism, there is nothing to teach outside of it has already been explained and defined by Prophets. This sentence is speculation, but we don't need philosophical views and moral beliefs added to it our religious beliefs, nothing is to be debated about Monotheism not being pacifistic for someone and how to treat non-Muslims, it is wrong to do this the principles cannot contradict the Muslim faith. Why do you think Muhammad said, "there will be no more Prophets after me"? We cannot add or subtract to the Muslim faith. You would never believe Muhammad except when he was teaching the Quran verbally, he had made his companions very smart. It sounds like he invented Gabriel where someone is told information by an Angel but cannot show us Gabriel. Mind you, Muhammad was illiterate, it would not have been impossible, but it would have been hard to be a "poet" when you've never read any poems and only heard them verbally. I don't have the proof with me, but I know people were far smarter than us today back in 580 A.D.; they had so much Scripture to work with looking up the burning of Alexandria library to get a sense. It is a secret that the people who lived during Jeshu's time were very smart and not dependent on the elders for advice, just look up how freemasonry is lost. Why does the Quran and hadiths exist? When we are judged by Allah, verses and hadith's will be read to us so whatever response we have it will not hold up. For example, the freemasons claim to be "peacemakers", Quran 2:11 addresses this by saying when it is read to them (on the Day of Judgment) they will say "we are but peacemakers". For those who feel like they are the enemy of the earth fear not, justice will prevail for you. Some people may not understand why the Muslim faith is on the earth, this is the only religion where people will listen to you when you talk about Palestine. Atheists do not care, polytheists don't, buddhists don't, hindus don't, and Christians outside of the Middle East do not. Try to prove me wrong, just look at the out of wedlock births in today's earth. A final flaw with other religions is that in Islam you must be a Muslim, you don't have to do or be anything in other religions, had it not been for animosity of people of other faiths, none would bother being a Buddhist for instance. All these religions are wrong, it is about you, not about how you feel or what you were raised as, Buddha for instance is not your friend you just share a common interest. I've already outlined how all other religions have done nothing for the earth where their countries are not nationalistic. We must be Muslim, it may sound tyrannical; it is the truth it is no surprise people hate Islam so much when no other religion except Judaism says you have to be in the faith which comes as no surprise that leaving the battle will lead you to Hell when all other religions allow for it. Islam is the only religion that teaches that the world will end tragically all other religions are not teaching this as outlined everyone believes everything will go smoothly when that couldn't be further from the truth. It is not hard to believe the Book of Life exists and it has each of our names in it that will decide if we go to Paradise or Hell? Look at the hijab or alcohol ban I feel deceived not being able to realize we don't even own our own lives if this were 200 years ago I wouldn't care since everyone practiced if there wasn't 7 layers of Paradise you could never talk someone into religion has nothing to do with humanitarianism the difficulty level for me is high to accept that yes this is not being run correctly at all I know I talk a lot about this but the earth is becoming disturbing and dumb it would be too easy to talk women out of this I can't imagine how they feel it has nothing to do with empathy towards them where we need men in the Mosques good thing they feel an attachment because I sure don't I have stuff to do. Who knows at this point who goes to Paradise or who goes to Hell, the earth has to continue, and we are being warned it will collapse. I understand completely that people of all faiths must think in their religions best interest hence why they don't support Israel or Palestine unless if it is beneficial to them; this is why Islam is my best interest; it is about us and our faith. You will be judged, supporting a country simply for giving you religious rights does not look favorable when I've offered separate nations for each religion that is not Abrahamic. I started to realize this when reading about how freemasonic France and America was founded, their creation was to end the earth and to more importantly to challenge us in faith, if they didn't constantly attack Muslim countries; it would not be too believable it is about how we will answer looking at how society was run for 2000 plus years, it will fade I know it once that fades what will we have to be judged by? Don't forget that billions of people are observing religion wrong.

Polytheism can't be correct because God delivered us his laws; we humans didn't come up with them. There are no Prophets in Polytheism to confirm to us not to have anal sex, do we don't have to be told not to do that, but it isn't defined it will always be debated amongst all Polytheistic faiths; it can never be disputed based on without me saying. If they do accept the reality of laws to life, they don't believe anything pleases or displeases their false god's, this is believable, but not true that not one thing is known about their false god's nor do these false god's play any role in the earth at all, they have no plan, and we would never know who their favorite humans were or not. Murder is not defined in Polytheistic faiths; they aren't justified for murder, ever. With more Polytheists there could be more murders in retaliation. If you want a harsh truth to accept, a Polytheist can claim their false god's either instructed them or they wanted to please their false god's to assassinate someone and it can't be disproven that their false god's didn't want it. They don't believe in a hierarchy which is a problem because humans cannot pick good leaders on this earth as shown time and time again and if countries leaders are getting worse, doesn't that tell us something? This is very concerning to me, we all learn under a Mufti of some kind; they help explain what is going on in the earth which every human needs a perspective for, what is going on here actually serious, but a Polytheist wouldn't pick up on it. When I say Iran is one of the few countries left that can be trusted, does a Polytheist accept this reality? Also, Polytheists can theorize that their false god's want peace; the problem with this is that there is land being fought over, we Muslims are taught not to surrender. One issue that people seem to overlook is the family structure, more and more families will be single household parents: data shows that crime rate increases among their children. I'm aware that in Islam divorce is prevalent, however Muslims are encouraged to remarry and most of the times do. One may argue that I'm only allowing for one school of thought, the reality is that there is no other way of doing this. The point I'm making here is that we are given the truth, we can't argue against Scripture here. If Islam is set to collapse, how can Polytheists and atheists govern themselves for a trivial issue we face today? The point of Abrahamic faiths is to make sense of the world around us, what if we were all adulterers; it is all written for us. Prophets exist to make us aware of what we cannot see such as Paradise. Polytheists can believe in Angels for instance, but there is no census on it and no Scripture to support the claim made, it is all mythology in Polytheism. Without any Scripture I won't believe on it. We know if your religion teaches you to love all people of faiths it is already false even if the world did work that way, people of other faiths will not accept you. With all polytheism, all of them are legends to explain where and how the earth began. With polytheism there is no concept of Hell, I can't believe that.

People bash Monotheism for why atheists go to Hell, what about if someone tortured a Muslim? I believe there are people we are not allowed to attack meaning we cannot attack a Mosque and if ever people do that in masses thinking we are scheming against their countries, what could happen to the earth? We are already taught not to befriend non-Muslims. The public already knows Mosques go against their countries; we can't all hate each other which is where the world is headed. If polytheism were right, how come only Monotheism speaks of a final day? That seems noteworthy to me. How come only Abrahamic faiths talk about the Devil? They can't all have the same concepts then wouldn't it be too obvious which is correct? So, all of these others faiths cannot borrow anything religions aren't different they just have less material in them. Nothing is established at all in Polytheism, not even a method of worship. The polytheists aren't taught good and evil with betraying their false god's nor is there any census; it is fine if their false god's aren't defined, but to claim that their god's do not condemn evil, that would make them evil. It is just a choice if they are good or evil same with good ethics, lying etc. Are they not made aware everything is a theory without this? They can believe in us humans being given life again on the earth which is not true. This is terrible since there would be a democracy of false god's meaning more children born in wedlock and more humans coming up with false ways of life like marrying their nieces. They also don't believe life has purpose or at least most polytheist options will tell you that. Polytheism isn't correct because Prophets were sent to the world to show us we aren't as strong as we think, if we were, we would reach our Lord. The truth of life is that we have to be shown that we sin. Agnosticism isn't correct because it is all written for us, what sign is someone waiting on or are not waiting for one at all? Wouldn't you think our Lord would want us to worship Him? Finally, Pantheism cannot be correct because it rejects spirituality which we know to be factual. When someone says, "I'm atheist", does anyone think "oh he's not polytheistic"? Do they say, "you don't believe in our false god's?" What would someone be declaring it as, has anyone ever denied the false polytheistic gods? My point being that even polytheists will think that person is denying our Lord. Islam is the only religion in the world to condemn leaving the battlefield thus making it the correct religion. Islam is the best religion by far, what other religions offer you is not enough Scripture or guidance in the world? I also want to add that world views in other religions and how to run a country are much more of an argument in other religions than they are in Islam, though I haven't done studies, Polytheist philosophers would find much more they agree on with Muhammad than with Zeus with what Zeus is providing them with in Scripture the same goes for other faiths, why else would all of this be written out for us? As if it isn't obvious enough all of these other Scriptures are false. I already know I'm not Jewish as an "ideology", that is how Islam is treated, I'm against democracy and Judaism or Talmudism is. This is why we have "Sharia Law" which is against capitalism, feminism, it shows us which people to befriend, it is in favor of nationalism, and it shows us when to pray along with laws on governing a country which is common sense. Most important, no one was allowed to know Christianity wasn't true and if Christianity and Judaism we know is a lie; wouldn't that only help the case that Monotheism is correct? People ask all of the time why everyone isn't Muslim, a better question is what if everyone of the world was polytheist? Their god's could do that, more and more people might believe on that which isn't true, that is my burden of evidence is that all of these Christians would have converted to Islam, now it is too late, too many people are also hijacking Islam and it is already being distorted on the news. If there really is a large increase in polytheism, people such as myself will say that I saw it coming not because it was warned of by Muhammad but because we cannot have much of the world quit Monotheism. It will only worsen things because say for instance Syria picked up polytheism, where and where does it pick up? This isn't something you plan for, now there is more religious division amongst people. If communities are distorted, how are they going to learn the Muslim faith or the polytheist faith they've now picked up? The hadiths won't be protected, it could be, but they won't get the imams they need, you can't have people go in and go out getting a new population, there has to be people who are expected to take over if no one is lined up for it. I read a report in Turkey where the youth aren't on board, how bad is that? We have to invest in humans. People want American "progress" in a country; this means the country could leave Islam. We also see more reports where people view Islam as evil in their own countries; that is awful because there are other false religions where they go against Islam. People ask all these questions, if you give them the answers, they won't accept them whether truthful or not. Islam gets treated as the idiot's religion, but we are expected to ask frequent questions, telling people that they have to earn it and accept that plenty of people are wrong about the faith; it won't cut it for them. I believe it is the environment not the people. Finding any religion in America is difficult. The problem is students need ambition whatever it takes to get them to that point heck if I knew. If I told someone that we cannot keep questioning our Lord, they will look at me funny not understanding that yes people are going to Hell if they do injustice to someone. If they think evil of our Lord, they will go to atheism or polytheism thinking it is better than Islam not understanding why we have to be Islamic. We know for a fact Islam will be treated as evil, what people do with it is their choice; we cannot force people to stay or not to use it as a weapon against others, something will go seriously wrong if people think evil of it where they will try to get rid of Islam, they don't understand why we are given life and why we have to take faith seriously, that is a serious concern. There will always be good on this earth; it doesn't matter if a 500-pound man is in a buffet line every week. With the Islamic faith, I feel it is cheating in a sense because we are given the prayer times so an atheist will have to claim Muslims are wasting their time. Heck if you're an atheist you can be anything, it doesn't matter how professional an atheist is, we Muslims ban strip clubs, short skirts, and tight yoga pants; we have better morality then them. You don't need Scripture to figure this material out, you live in the real world, lie to people on a day-to-day basis to see what happens to your credibility. You may not agree with the laws and methods, but they are there. If this were your life, you could steal, that is the message, we don't own our lives or else Hell wouldn't exist. For those who really don't get it, do you think a teaching such as respecting your elders that has been taught forever goes in vain? If you believe priests are duping people for money that's fine, but why are there so many Islamic scholars who make little to nothing? Doesn't it seem elaborate that a country would do this? If these scholars weren't there, I could understand. It makes no sense to me that a President would set up religion in the schools for Syria; is he doing it to control people since he appeals to the religious people? The response I have is that these are God's people, they follow God's laws the first thing that comes to mind is that the Bible and Quran are out of date, but they are not. Also, the arguments against religion are small talking points, if there were thousands of pages of text, I could understand but there isn't. This goes together with the fact that Islam did not conquer the earth, now we know why we have to be judged, if it did then I wouldn't believe on it. One of the complaints people make against Islam is cousin marriages, though genetic disorder risks go up, their IQ's will not go down, IQs aren't based on who you marry; there is no problem with the religion itself. So often Islam is being depicted as indoctrination, don't all communities and religions have their own set beliefs and ideals in today's earth? The worst "argument" against Islam is that Muslims immigrate to western countries, don't all people of any backgrounds do? Islam gets hate for apostasy laws; Judaism has the same practice in Deuteronomy 13:6, if anything that helps make me believe the religion is correct since what if people left Islam in masses? An apostate Jew is called a kofer which means the same as kafir, as if it isn't obvious enough Judaism and Islam are the same religions with different holy days and method of prayer, hate one then hate both of them. The Arabic cap is Arabian. Kosher, halal, shalom, and salam are the same. People coming in want more money; they would gladly go to Saudi Arabia if it was next to them, it has nothing to do with the religion or their home countries. I will never defend these "Muslim" street police, people will not listen to banning alcohol, nor am I taught by the religion to conquer the world, this minority of a minority believes these two false principles. Bridget Gabriel and Tommy Robinson are trying to scare you with their lies; there is no "global conquest of Islam", humans be it wahhab or not do not want this. The public will always assume we are plotting attacks because of the media; people of all faiths already hate Islam so anyone will believe it this is dangerous in the future where if there is a war the west will believe that Islam is trying to conquer a country. Why are there forced conversions in the Middle East? We are going through a tough time as Muslims; we don't know who to trust, we only want unity and what is best, I have no doubt any other faith would do this in their country if it were in poverty, it must continue despite peace for 1400 years as I have repeated several times throughout my book, Islam is very tolerant of other religions. What may surprise you is that Prophets aren't who you think they are; all they thought about was God. If they could, they would spend all day with you, these were hateful tyrants seeking revenge or warlords by any means, religion had to expand on the earth the earth had to be governed by a rule of law, that isn't so difficult to accept. Would you rather I lie that if you skip war you go to Hell? Do you want people to stop going to Mosques because they get attacked? People think it is fun being a Muslim, it can be at times. What am I going to do? Avoid the news? It is just whatever. Finally, in Islam we are taught not to ask too many questions, that actually makes sense to me people ask why so much hatred, why so many famous figures that are against Islam, why are some devout, why not give us more to make us believe? That would be asking too many. We will all be judged, the laws of life, that the world will end, and how they explained what will happen to us, they gave us enough answers. Why is my neighbor loud? Why are a portion of people cheaters? These are dumb questions; you would get the answers later, if we had got the answers, we would all be geniuses. There are questions we cannot answer like why Muhammad ibn Al-Wahhab did not listen to the scholars and chose to write in false hadith's knowing the irreversible damage this man has done.
